

"We have worked with generations of farmers to grow tomatoes that deliver superior taste, outstanding color, and provide the right consistency for our soups and juices."

Tim Gruenwald
CAMPBELL'S DIRECTOR OF AGRICULTURE

It Starts with Great Tomatoes

Campbell coordinates with farmers to grow more than 800,000 tons of tomatoes each year, which are used as ingredients for the company's soups, sauces and vegetable-based beverages. To guarantee use of the highest-quality tomatoes, Campbell established its Agricultural Research Center in Davis, California in 1948 where the company field-tests between 300-500 tomato varieties each year in search of the perfect fruit.

In keeping with Campbell's commitment to sustainability and corporate social responsibility, Campbell uses sustainable and cost-saving practices throughout the growing and harvesting process to ensure its products are earth-friendly as well as a great value.
